wear out of your furs, as well as the finest selection. Furs are not like cloth; you can duplicate a piece of goods very easily, but when you try to duplicate or match a fur it is very different. To get skins to make a coat it is sometimes necessary to pick over a pile of five hundred skins to get enough to make a coat that looks near enough alike. We have some of the best values in small Furs and Fur Coats that we have ever shown.

Ladies' Furs

Every season the demand for small Furs and Separate Muffs grows greater. We have got together a full line of Furs in all grades and kinds of Furs. The demand for Separate Muffs will be larger than ever this season, as it is almost impossible for a lady to get along without a Muff.

We start our Muffs at $2.00 in the Black and Brown Coney. These are a good-sized muff.

At $2.98 we can give you a good assortment of Isabella and Black Opossum Muffs in a quality that will wear nicely.

At $3.98 is a better quality of Opossum Muffs; and they are a little larger in size.

At $5.50 is an extra value in a Brook Mink Muff. These are a fur that will wear as well as any fur we have.

Our line of Fox Muffs comes in all grades. The Black Furs seem to take the lead. We have a Black Fox Muff that looks almost like a lynx.

If you want a good Mink Muff, see our line of Jap Mink, as well as the Eastern Mink.

AYER—HILL

Former Barre Man Married in Hardwick Saturday Evening.

The marriage of Miss Grace Hill, daughter of Henry Hill of Hardwick, to Glen Ayer, formerly of Barre, occurred at the home of the bride Saturday evening, there being about twenty-five people at the wedding. The double ring service was used by Rev. John Jones of the Methodist church there, and the bridal couple were attended by Miss Alice Hill, sister of the bride and Dean Ayer of Barre, brother of the groom. They received many useful wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayer will reside in Hardwick, the groom being engaged in farming there.

Dolls and Artificial Flowers Which Change Color.

The principal uses of cobalt in the United States are in making glass and pottery. A beautiful blue is given to glass by the oxide of cobalt. Sympathetic inks, according to a report of the United States geological survey, are made from cobalt acetate, chloride, and nitrate that are colored when heated or colorless when cold. This interesting phenomenon is due to the change in color of the salts on the absorption of water. When dry they are blue and easily seen on paper; when damp they are pink; and when dilute, colorless. A puzzling application of this principle may be in a doll whose dress is blue in dry weather but changes to pink when subjected to dampness, as in wet weather or when the doll is held in the steam of a tea kettle. Artificial flowers are made to show the same effect.

DROWNED WHILE HUNTING.

Benjamin Gordon, Aged 18, of South Hero was the Victim.

South Hero, Oct. 31.—Benjamin Gordon, aged 18 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gordon, was found drowned about eight rods from the shore of Sawyer's island early Sunday morning. On Saturday morning he started in a boat for the island, where he had a blind. About two o'clock a boat was seen drifting north from the island. Later the boat proved to be young Gordon's. A search was instituted at once and early Sunday morning Bert Gordon and Melvin Hyde went to the island with grapplings and soon recovered the body. It is supposed that the boat broke loose and in attempting to recover it young Gordon lost his life, as he was unable to swim.

Here Are the Calls That Everybody Must Make.

In a practical talk on every day etiquette in the November Woman's Home Companion the author records the calls that one must make:

"Certain stated calls must be made. The call at least once a year upon those on your calling list; the call after having been entertained at dinner, or luncheon, or at an evening entertainment; the call or congratulation after a marriage, or a birth; the call of condolence upon those in sorrow; the call of inquiry at the house of illness; the call upon the newcomer into your neighborhood, or upon a stranger who has been introduced to you by a friend; the return call, when a first call has been made upon you—none of these can be evaded. A first call should be returned within a week, or at longest a fortnight; a dinner call, or, in fact, any others of those named, should be paid promptly.

"If two women call together, it is the older of the two who makes the signal for departure by rising or giving a significant glance to her companion.

"There is no need for great formality of conduct in calling. The well bred woman who is at ease in her own house need have no fear of appearing awkward in the house of another. To come in quietly after leaving her card at the door; to speak, first of all, to her hostess, then to recognize the other persons present; to chat with those nearest the seat she has taken, avoiding topics which might lead to argument or discussion; to take her cup of tea and bit of cake or sandwich; to leave at the end of twenty minutes, or half an hour after shaking hands with her hostess, and bowing farewell to the others present—here is all that constitutes a call. A little familiarity robs calling of any terrors it may possess for the bashful, or for those unaccustomed to society; and one learns it is just the old time 'afternoon visit' with a new name."
